To test the theory, we perform an empirical analysis using unique data on catastrophic earthquake risk and commercial property loan contracts and prices in the United States in the 1990s. Using data from Standard and Poor's (S&P) ratings of commercial mortgage-backed securities (CMBS), we first show that only 35% of properties in earthquake zones carry earthquake insurance and the probability that insurance is purchased is increasing in earthquake risk ...

and catastrophe risk management was changed forever. It became clear that a probabilistic approach to loss analysis was the most appropriate way to manage catastrophe risk. Hurricane Andrew illustrated that the actuarial approach to managing catastrophe risk was insufficient; a more sophisticated modelling approach was needed. Today, catastrophe models are prevalent throughout the insurance industry, assisting re/insurers and other stakeholders in managing their risk from both natural perils ...

A TOOL FOR RISK ASSESSMENT : Abstract: A lot of companies need to carry out a risk assessment, but most of them do not have the experience to determine the risk in a qualitative way. Therefore, these organizations use the tools for qualitative or qualitative quantitative risk assessment. A useful tool - for risk assessment is risk matrices (risk assessment scoring matrices/ risk ranking matrices). The aim of this paper is to present various risk matrices. Typical risk assessment matrices ...
